LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the printed catalog cards of the Library of Congress are given at the end of the main (author) entry of each book. When the card for a serial publication or a many volumed set appearing at intervals is printed as an open entry card, the number is enclosed in curves ( ). When the card number is enclosed in [ ] it indicates that the card at Library of Congress is for an edition of the book other than the one listed; or is for the English edition when two numbers are given.

In case any book which is entered here without a card number is later cataloged by the Library of Congress, the author entry will be reentered in the current Cumulative Book Index to give its number.

In ordering cards by these numbers, the numbers should be arranged in columns in increasing order of the numbers. The number of copies wanted should be indicated after the card numbers with a slanting line between, e.g., 5-2850/4. For further information apply to the Card Division of the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.

(W)

(W) Sets of Wilson catalog cards are available for all books marked with this symbol. Sets average 4 to 5 cards and are obtainable either WITH or WITHOUT subject headings at the top of the card. In ordering indicate type of card preferred.

PREFACE

This volume is a record of books published during the five years 1928-1932 inclusive, and forms the first permanent supplement to the fourth edition of the United States Catalog.

During this period there has been no change in the principles of inclusion of works published in the United States, but these principles have been broadened to include all books in the English language published since the beginning of 1929, regardless of country of issue. The Cumulative Book Index thus is, and will continue to be, a complete bibliography of works in English, exclusive of government documents, tracts, propaganda and other issues of very local or ephemeral nature.

Theoretically no books published later than 1932 are included here. But when a book was published in one country in 1932, and it appeared in another country early enough in 1933 to be included, that has been done. Books published in several countries have been entered with special care. Publisher in each country of issue is given, with price in the currency of that country, except in the case of a few publishers who habitually quote otherwise. Any variations of title or format are shown in the entry.

The period of economic disturbance thru which we are passing has made it most difficult to compile a permanent record of this size with assurance that notation of publisher and price will be correct for any length of time. However, changes in publisher and price have been made to agree with the latest information received before going to press. Changes of publisher of editions listed in the United States Catalog are designated (corr pub). All books entered in the United States Catalog which have had a price change of more than 50 cents have been re-entered to show this change, with the designation (corr price).

Notice of many changes have been received while this volume was being printed. In cases where only one of the secondary entries was printed, correction was made in entries occurring later in the alphabet. Therefore if two entries for the same edition vary in price, the one later in the alphabet agrees with our latest information. In case the main entry or more than one secondary was printed, no change has been made here, but has been shown in current numbers of the Cumulative Book Index, with the customary indication. Future price changes of books entered in this volume will be shown in current numbers of the Cumulative Book Index as soon as they are known; but they are so numerous and take place so rapidly that users are warned, in ordering books, to allow for possible unrecorded price revisions.

No attempt has been made to check out of print items. However, when definite information on these items has been available, it has been indicated by the usual sign, o p. A few books of publishers who have recently gone out of business, have been impossible for us to trace. When the entries of these still stand with the original publisher, it may be quite safely assumed that they have been remaindered, and are now out of print.

A work of this nature, with its great amount and complexity of detail, requires the cooperative, conscientious work of many people and a division of responsibility. Glafira De Freitas and Regina Goldman have not only revised most of the copy and read final proofs during the five-year period and for this cumulation, but have also trained younger assistants in these processes. Martha Mercer has been responsible for many of the earlier processes of compilation, Charlotte Squires for name forms, Agnes Smith for alphabeting, and Marguerite Vasti and Mildred Speare for most of the final processes connected with proof correction. It is impossible to mention here all those others who have carried on many vital processes during these five years. Their work is, none the less, greatly appreciated.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the printed catalog cards of the Library of Congress are given at the end of the main (author) entry of each book. When the card for a serial publication or a many volumed set appearing at intervals is printed as an open entry card, the number is enclosed in curves ( ). When the card number is enclosed in [ ] it indicates that the card at Library of Congress is for an edition of the book other than the one listed; or is for the English edition when two numbers are given.

In case any book which is entered here without a card number, is later cataloged by the Library of Congress, the author entry will be reentered in the current Cumulative Book Index to give its number.

In ordering cards by these numbers, the numbers should be arranged in columns in increasing order of the numbers. The number of copies wanted should be indicated after the card numbers with a slanting line between, e.g., 5-2850/4. The price of cards ordered by numbers is 2½c. for the first copy and 1½c. for each additional copy. If the order is by author and title, the price of the first card is 4c. For further information apply to the Card Section of the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.
